TUR TLE

Hello, patient readers! Peter and I want to extend a big, big, BIG "Thanks!" to every one of you who waited those extra two months for this issue to come out. You wouldn't believe how much we needed that time to get back on track, and work out all the details of the exciting new projects we're working on for the rest of 1987. Thanks again for waiting, people — it really means a lot to us!

As for some of those things that we've taken all that extra time to do, check this out:

Beginning in mid-May, the Turtles go monthly! That's right! We're introducing an entirely new TMNT comic entitled Tales of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, which will ship in the months that our regular book doesn't come out (neat, huh?). Tales of the TMNT will feature stories by Peter and I, and artwork by Jim Lawson and Ryan Brown. Don't miss the eight-page preview of Tales of the TMNT in the reprinting of TMNT #4, shipping May 1.

Elsewhere in the backfield, look for an all-new TMNT role-playing game from Paladium Books, also due to hit comic stores in May. Entitled The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles Guide to the Galaxy, the book features a new full-color wraparound cover, a new ten-page TMNT story, and dozens of new Eastman and Laird illustrations. It's sure to be fun!

But that's not all — we're presently finishing work on the next full-color Graphic Novel! First Comics and Mirage Studios are at it again, and plan to release issues #4, #5, and #6 and the 11-page epilogue from #3 in an all-new volume, with a new color cover. This second TMNT Graphic Novel is slated to hit the stands in June. Yahoo!

So much for the big publishing news — back here on the home front, or corporate headquarters as we like to call it (ha, ha), we want to extend a hearty welcome to our new office coordinator, Cheryl Prindle! Cheryl is presently waging a paperwork war...and it looks like our side is winning!

We also want to thank ol' Ryan Brown for designing the new frontispiece and Turtle Tracks logo — great job as usual, Ry!

Lastly, a special tip of the hat to Richard Konkle and Jim Groat for the wonderful pin-up of their character Equine the Uncivilized and the TMNT's. Keep up the great work, guys!

That's all for now, gang. Take care!

KEVIN P

P.S. The whole Mirage gang will be appearing at the Green Mountain Comicon II, in Burlington, Vermont, on April 26 (Sunday). The show will be held at the Econolodge Conference Center at 1076 Williston Road in South Burlington (exit 14E off Interstate 89). Among the other guests is Steve Bissette, Swamp Thing artist! For more information, you can call Greg Giordano at (802) 658-5718.
